A remarkable railroad accident occurred at Marquette, on the South Shore Road. A heavy freight train loaded with mining machinery pulled out on the spur track with two engines. Four cars were left on the spur. The train got part way up the hill and broke in two. The train flew back, and the brakeman being unable to stop it, crashed into the cars on the spur and drove them over a big bulldog clean across the street into Fraser's Block, knocking in the whole deck, just taking off the roof. The way is still on.

Cleveland says the democrats saved the Union during the war. Let's see; yes, Grover did send a substitute, that is a fact.—Blade.

Cal. Brice says it was the Grand Army that elected Harrison. Brice may be right, the Grand Army has always been regarded as a patriotic institution.—Blade.

Now just see the old soldiers crowd into Grover Cleveland's office to get him to put through their pension claims. If you do well give you a dollar.—Detroit Tribune.

Mr. Cleveland left his compliments to the old soldiers in the shape of 27 unsigned private pension bills passed by congress. It was his last chance to get a whack at the "Nation's paupers," as they are affectionately called by Southern statesmen and newspapers.
—Detroit Tribune.

During his term as president, Mr.
Cleveland vetoed directly 278 bills—157 more than were vetoed by all his predecessors combined, from Washington down. During the session just closed 99 House bills and 49 Senate bills failed of executive approval.
Grover passes into history as the champion vetoer.—Blade.

The Cabinet is a stronger one than was Mr. Cleveland's, a better one than many that have preceded it under republican presidents. It is made of sound republican timber. It is free from men who represent party factions. The majority in the Senate is not weakened by drawing on it for Cabinet material. It is a Cabinet from which we may expect a strong, clean business administration. Public affairs will be honestly, economically and efficiently administered. The appointees are strong in the positions where strength is required, they have business talent where that is the leading requisite, and each man is amply competent for the particular duties of the department to which he has been called. We have a sincere belief that the result will justify the president's selections and vindicate his wisdom.— Blade.

That the republican state convention made no mistake when it nominated Claudio B. Grant, as the candidate for justice of the supreme court, becomes more evident as time passes.
The leading democratic papers of the upper peninsula admit that Judge Grant is in every way qualified for the position and virtually concede his election. Judge Grant is not only entitled to the position because of his ability, but it is due the upper peninsula that it should be represented upon the supreme bench of our state, and he is a representative man from that section.
There are five judges of the supreme court, but the upper peninsula has never had a representative upon the bench. It is nothing more than justice that this rapidly developing portion of the state, with its large mining, lumbering, commercial and manufacturing interests, should have a representative, and it has no more capable man for the position than the nominee of the republican party.—

Alden's Manifold Cyclopedias.

Volume XI. carries this work from Debt to Donutie. The 640 are packed with information of just the kind which the vast majority of reading people desire to obtain. Like its predecessors it is truly manifold in its character. In a single volume it gives an unabridged dictionary, and a cyclopedia of information which is ample for practical use, is fully reliable, and is brought down to the present year. Among the articles treated at some length we notice that Debt, with its various sub-heads, has over 7 pages; while kindred topics, as Debtor and Creditor, occupy over 6 pages more. Delaware has about 5 pages; Delirium Tremens, 4 pages; Democracy, nearly 7 pages; Denmark, about 10 pages; Dentistry, about 6 pages; De-reign of Man, 6 pages; Development, 11 pages; Diet, 8 pages; Digestion, 23 pages; Diphteria, 5 pages. There are also, a large number of really helpful illustrations. The form of the book most convenient; the paper, printing, and binding are all very good. This is emphatically the cyc-lopedia for the people, and the extremely low price—only 50 cents a volume in cloth, or 65 cents in half morocco—brings it within the reach of all.
A specimen volume may be ordered and returned if not satisfactory.

cisco.

WASHINGTON LETTER

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, Mar. 8, '61.
President Harrison has made a beginning which, if kept up, will make his administration one of the most popular in the history of the Government.

His deference to the people was shown in a marked manner when he was inaugurated. The rain was pouring down in torrents and it was suggested that he should be sworn in and deliver his inaugural address in the Senate Chamber instead of on the platform erected for the purpose at the east portico of the Capitol. His reply was: "There are thousands of people out there who have been waiting patiently for several hours to see the ceremony and hear the address and I do not propose to disappoint them.
If they can come out in the rain to see and hear me, I can and shall speak in the rain." And he did. Another thing that adds to his personal popularity is his habit of duly taking a long walk through the streets either unattended or accompanied only by a friend.

The verdict hereupon the inaugural address is that it is one of the best ever delivered, and that it is sure to rank high in history. It makes no sensation, nor was it intended to, but it is conceded to be thoroughly patriotic by those who are not patriotic.

In his selection for a Cabinet it is also conceded that the President has been particularly fortunate. He seems to have made no enemies nor caused any hard feeling among the party leaders. This is almost unprecedented. James G. Blaine, Secretary of State, needs no introduction to the American people. His career as Representative, Speaker of the House, Senator, Secretary of State under Garfield and candidate for the presidency is a part of American history.
William Windom, Secretary of the Treasury, is almost as well known as Mr. Blaine. He was Secretary of the Treasury under Garfield and made a good impression on the country at that time. He has also been a Representative in Congress and a Senator.

The Century.

In the March CENTURY the most timely essay is that on the "Rules of the House of Representatives," by the republican leader, Hon. Thomas B.
Reed of Maine. Mr. Reed explains how the rules of the House have been framed with the view of rendering legislation difficult, and he makes important suggestions of changes which it is natural to suppose he and his political associates will control the next House of Representatives, may endeavor to bring about.

In the same category of special timeliness should be mentioned a curious article on "The Use of Oil to Still the Waves," by Lieutenant W. H.
Beehler of the Office of Naval Intelligence, United States Navy Department.

The present installment of the Life of Lincoln is entitled "The Edict of Freedom," and completes the story of Emancipation.

The frontispiece of the number is a portrait of the Grand Lama of the Trans-Balkal, from a photograph given to George Kennan in exchange for his own.

In fiction there is begun a three-part story by Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote, entitled "The Last Assembly Ball: A Pseudo-Romance of the Far West" and Mr. Edwards, the author of "Two Runaways," in "The Rival Souls" tells a story in a new vein, and without dialect.

In the same number of the CENTURY Mrs. van Rensselaer and Mr. Pennell present the history and appearance of old York Cathedral just at the time when the plans of a cathedral for New York are being decided upon.

There are poems by James Whitcomb Riley ("Down to the Capital"), Frank Dempster Sherman, Florence
Earle Coates, L. M. S., Herbert D.
Ward, Charles Henry Luddes; and in "Bric-a-Brac" by Tudor Jenks.

"Topics of Time" are "Election Laws for Congressmen," "The English Language in America," and "Lincoln's Disinterestedness."

ing the schools cannot be too strongly urged upon the parents of the pupils. In no way can the amount and earnestness of the work, which your boys and girls are doing, be ascertained more certainly than by paying a personal visit to the school and getting a correct report from the teacher.

It is true that each month reports are issued, but the reports convey rather an incomplete idea of the work that is being done. Parents are always welcome visitors, as indeed all others.

your boy that his parents take some interest in the way he is being educat-

Catholics and the Christian Scientists,

March, has simplified matters, bring-more information from it than could

A Terrible Misfortune.
It is a calamity of the deepest kind to follow that one's physical energies are failing in the prime of life. To live more necessaries, more dissipations, weaker every day. Yet this is the unhappy lot of hundreds who surround us. A sense of renewed strength, while disease appears, in behalf of which multitudes of the debilitated have and are every day testifying, and which, in countless instances, has built up constitutions nursed by weak men, and suddenly broken down by others, who, though not composed themselves to all who need a tonic, Hostett's Stomach-Bitters is such a medicine—pure, botanic, nothing to do with the trade, nothing to do with the nostrum, nothing to do with the nostrum, nothing to do with the nostrum.

OFFICIAL CHOP REPORT.

The Condition Generally Favorable for Spring Work.

The Signal Office weather and crop report is as follows:

The week ended March 9 was colder than usual in the South, and warmer than usual in the Eastern, Central, and Northern States. There was an unusually heavy snowfall in the Districts of the Great Lakes, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Kentucky, Tennessee, and Southern Michigan about 60 per cent. of the time. The weather in the Northwest was very deficient in moisture, and the winter-wheat region the reports indicate that the weather in that section has affected this crop.

It is reported in fine condition, and sowing is progressing in the Dakotas and Montana. Reports from Tennessee, Arkansas, and the Gulf Coast show that the winter wheat is in good condition, and the cotton is in fair condition. The cotton in New Jersey and Pennsylvania, however, reports indicate that wheat in those States has not been materially injured.

MASKS AND REVOLVERS.

They Clean Out a Store at Forbes, Mo., in which Were Several Men.

A sensation was created at the small town of Forbes, Mo., thirty miles north of St. Joe, by the bold robbery of the principal store in town. Three men, their faces hidden by heavy false beards, with drawn revolvers, entered the store of Young & Co., in which were 4000 and twenty citizens talking and playing checkers. They were ordered to throw up their hands, and promptly obeyed. Two of the thieves kept their revolvers on the crowd while the third went through the cash-drawer. Then, turning to the crowd, each man was ordered to deliver his valuables "on penalty of death." The robbers only secured $50 in cash, with many watches and other goods. They then warned the crowd not to move for ten minutes, went outside and disappeared before the alarm was given.

OKLAHOMA BOOMERS.

Harry Hill Outlines "Vigorous Plan" to Get Them Across the Line.

The latest information in regard to the movements of the Oklahoma boomers is to the effect that Harry Hill, in an interview, at Fort Smith, outlined his plan of action.

The boomers are to be massed at Caldwell and Hummel, Kan. These will lead in person, while a company from the west will be in command of Col. Cole, and the people from the south will be under a competent leader. He says in thirty days he can cross the line with a larger force than Payne ever had. If pursued, he says "he will cut every wire fence in the Cherokee strip and burn the grass to the Chickasaw line. Col. Crocker writes to Col. Hill that the 30,000 people in the Chickasaw Nation are wild, and that he can not restrain them.

BUTCHERY IN HAVAI.

Capt. Frater Brings Word of a Bloody Massacre by Legions of Men.

The steamship Coban has arrived at New York from Port de Pats. Capt. Frater said: "We arrived at Port de Pats from Santiago de Cuba on Feb. 21. We found the natives almost destitute, their chief article of food being raw sugar-cane. Little food was to be had in the town, and pork was offered at $3 a barrel. The natives had relapsed almost to a condition of savagery. A terrible battle took place in the interior in which 200 or 300 were killed. Legitimate army attacked the Hippocratic forces at Grand Saline, and after several repulses succeeded in carrying the outposts and were soon masters of the city, when the prisoners were butchered, and their bodies horribly mutilized."
